A quarterly eNewsletter dedicated to North Carolina Data and Information Management News and Business Trends.

A Note from Chris

With the temperatures we've all been experiencing this summer I've decided that one of my favorite on-the-job benefits is having climate controlled storage here on site. I must admit that I've been "inspecting" that part of our operations a little more than usual over the past couple weeks.

Not that that is the coolest thing we've got going on here at COR365 this summer. I'm very happy to announce the recent professional Information Governance certification of long time employee Bridgett Weldner. I hope that you'll take advantage of Bridgett's expertise in this very specialized field soon.

Additionally, our new iCOR by M-Files offering continues to wow clients both near and far. Particularly with its ease of access and intuitive interface, making employee training a complete non-issue. If you haven't seen the power of iCOR yet please contact either me directly at ckelley@COR365.com or Betsy Gauthier, Director of Customer Relations at 336-331-4904 or email bgauthier@COR365.com for a demo.

In the meantime, stay cool.

Chris

Managing today's record storage.

Manage information at an enterprise level? Meet Bridgett. Our certified Information Governance Professional.

Information Governance is more than traditional records management. IG incorporates privacy attributes, e-discovery requirements, storage optimization and metadata management. IGP is the newest certification in the Information Governance profession. COR365 is proud to announce that long time employee and Security and Compliance Account Manager Bridgett Weldner has successfully completed this important certification.

"IG takes all the moving parts of an enterprise that don't typically talk to each other and pulls it altogether for that organization's management," says Bridgett. "It's key to any company's success. The C-level needs a complete picture in order to communicate effectively to all those parts and to keep on track. Especially organizations that deal with any type of regulatory compliance requirements."

"iCOR by M-Files is an especially powerful tool in Information Governance," says Chris Kelley, COR365's General Manager. "The complete lifecycle management of critical business data requires secure visibility and ease of access in order to be efficient. iCOR insures that our clients have the data they need when they need it."

In addition to assisting COR365 clients with their information governance programs, Bridgett also is responsible for facility audits, process audits, risk assessment, security and privacy training, incident investigation and prevention, and inventory audits.

She also coordinates with COR365's Department/Facility Managers and HR to insure proper training for all employees. "There's information in the Public sector that has to be shared, while there's information in the Private sector that must remain secure. Knowing the difference is critical to our and our client's success," says Bridgett.

Happily married and the mother of three daughters (and a grand daughter), you'll find Bridgett in the great outdoors on her days off. Fishing rod in one hand and a novel in the other.
